

Lap Band Story

Lap Band Story

Lap Band Procedures got their start in the United States back in 2001 when the Food & Drug Administration granted approval for the surgery. Before that the procedure was popular in both Europe and Australia.

When traditional weight loss programs are not always the answer for individuals looking to lose weight, Lap Band Procedures can get the job done and at a decent price.

Patients going to a lap band center seeking more information on Lap Band Procedures will start the process by speaking with a lap band specialist. Questions regarding the surgery, a patient's prior attempts at losing weight and going over one's body mass index (BMI) will be among the items normally discussed.
